UNIT-1

LITERATURE APPRECIATION

- Reading comprehension

Sub-skills of reading comprehension are to be worked out and tested through an unseen passage in about 200-500 words. A student should get acquainted with sub-skills of reading for the purpose of:

- Skimming the gist

- Skimming is a task of finding out the important details of a written text without giving a close reading to it. The word 'skimming' is derived from 'skum' implying the thick layer floating on liquid. Similarly by skimming a text we take out all the key points out of it in one look.

- Scanning for necessary information

- But scanning is not overlooking - it searches for those details which are not apparent on the surface. Scanning skill operates in the manner a scanner takes the photos of what is not seen on the ground.

- Close reading for inference and evaluation

- Inference and Evaluation: Inferential and evaluative analysis of the text relates more to close reading. A reader, here, examines the text to find out what the written text conveys and how it can be accessed. This is some kind of an analytical task done by the reader.

Main idea and supporting points

- Identifying the central idea of the text and the supporting ideas

- It helps to form a mental plan of the text.

- Guessing the meaning of un-familiar words

- Note- making

- Converting an extensive text into a brief form that can be easily digested, remembered and reproduced. Brevity and clarity are two important features of a note.

- Making a note of a speech is something like jotting down important points quickly while listening and later on making a fair copy of it. But making a note of a reading comprehension observes a more detail and systematic procedure.
- Involves identifying the main point and the supporting points.

• Summarizing

- It is shortened form of the text.
- It contains the main points of the text.
- It is written in our own words.
- It shows how well the reader has understood the text.

• Supplying a suitable title.

- It needs identifying the central idea of the text.
- It should express the author's tone and feeling.
- It should be neither too long nor too broad.
- It should be the concentrated form of the entire ideas in the text.

Text the following chapter from "Invitation to English

Standing Up For Yourself By Yevgeny Yevtushenko

UNIT- 1

- The writer Yevgeny Yevtushenko describes his childhood experiences in this text.
- The narrator says he did not have a joyful childhood since he was all alone in Moscow, after the divorce of his parents.
- His father used to stay in Kazakhstan and his mother was at the front who had given up her job as a geologist to become a singer.
- The writer had no access to decent means of education as it is clearly mentioned in the line —My education was left to the streets.
- The street taught him to swear, smoke, spit elegantly through his teeth and to keep his fists at the ready.
- The street also taught him not to be afraid of anything or anyone.
- He realized that what mattered in his life was to overcome his fear of those who were stronger.

UNIT-2

- In this section narrator describes the ruler of their street, Red.
- He was a boy of sixteen with big and broad shoulder beyond his age.

- He walked masterfully up and down their street, legs wide and with a slightly rolling gait, like a seaman on his deck.
- He used to wear a cap and its peak is always at the back of his head.
- His forelock tumbled down like a fiery cascade.
- Out of his round pock marked face green eyes like a cat's sparkled with scorn for everything and everyone.
- Two or three lieutenants in peaked caps back to front like Red's, tripped at his heels.
- Red could stop any one and impressively say one word,—money. If anyone hesitates to give, the lieutenants beat them hard.
- He carried a heavy metal knuckle duster in his pocket.
- Everyone as well the narrator was afraid of Red.

UNIT- 3

- The narrator says in order to conquer his fear of Red he wrote a poem about Red,
- It was his first piece of journalism in verse.
- The very next day the whole street knew it by heart and exulted with triumphant hatred.
- One morning when narrator was on his way to school he came across Red and lieutenants.
- Red mocked at narrator for his act.
- He darted into his pocket and came out armed with his knuckle duster and struck the narrator's head.
- The narrator fell down streaming with blood and lost his consciousness.
- Narrator says that this was his first remuneration as a poet.
- He spent several days in bed and when he went out still with bandage in head he saw Red.
- He didn't dare to face Red and took to his heels.
- He was ashamed of his cowardice.
- He promised himself to vanquish his fear of Red at whatever cost.

UNIT- 4

- Finally in order to vanquish his fear of Red narrator went into training with parallel of bars and weight
- After every session he felt that his muscles were getting bigger but slowly.
- Then he remembered that he had read in a book about a miraculous Japanese method of wrestling which gave advantage to the weak over strong.

- He exchanged a week's ration card for a text book on Ju-Jitsu.
- For three weeks, he stayed at home, practicing with two other boys.
- Then one day when he went out, he saw Red was sitting on the lawn, playing Vingt-et-un with his lieutenants.
- Fear was still in narrator urging him to go back. But he went to the players and kicked and scattered the card.
- Red looked up, surprised at narrator's impudence.
- He got up and dived into his pocket for knuckle duster.
- The narrator made a quick jabbing movement and Red howling with pain, rolled on the round. Again he got up swinging his head furiously from side to side like a maddened bull.
- The narrator caught his wrist and squeezed slowly as he read in the book, until the knuckle-duster dropped from his limp fingers.
- Nursing his hand Red fell down again. He was sobbing.
- From that day Red ceased to be the monarch of the .
- From that day on narrator knew for certain that one need not fear the strong. All one needs is to know the way to beat them.
- He also learned on this occasion that to be a poet you must know how to stand up for them.

Magic Of Teamwork By Sam Pitroda

- UNIT 1
- The Magic of Teamwork presents an insightful overview of proven principles that organization can employ to build a winning team in their business.
- In this essay, the author also discusses the fundamental issues related to teamwork, the characteristic of a good team player, and how teamwork is key to corporate and national governance.
- Author says lack of teamwork and co-operation is one of the most serious problems affecting progress in all areas of India and wherever Indians work worldwide.
- The key problem in India is always implementation, not lack of policies.
- We have great policies and ideas about how to do things, but we severely lack teamwork.
- When the Japanese came to work in India to develop the Maruti Suzuki Car a joke went around that one Indian was equal to 10 Japanese:
- Indians were very smart, capable and dedicated when it comes to work individually.

- But 10 Indians were equal to 1 Japanese: Indian lacked team spirit and co-operation.
- What makes matter even worse is our —crab mentality- if someone is trying to climb higher and achieve more, the others just drag him down.
- The signal that the others send out is, I wouldn't do it; I wouldn't let you do it; and if by chance you start succeeding, we will gang up and make sure you don't get to do it.
- The question is: Where does this attitude come from, and how do we recognize and handle it?
- Hierarchical System: Part of the problem is our cultural background. We've had feudal and hierarchical social systems, In which , whoever is senior supposedly knows the best.
- This was fine in earlier times when knowledge and wisdom were passed on orally; but in modern society, there is no way that one person can know everything.
- Until we understand how best to use this diversity of experience, we will not be able to create and fully utilize the right kind of teams.
- UNIT 2
- In this part author narrates his experience when he was in Rockwell International in the US,
- He attended an executive seminar for Rockwell International, where about 25 senior company executives had congregated for a week of strategic discussion.
- In the evenings, they would break out into five different groups of five people each.
- In those group workshops, someone would delegate tasks, saying: —You make coffee; you take notes; you are the chairman; and you clean the board. The next day, there would be different duties for each group member.
- No one ever said, —But I made coffee twice or I cleaned the board entire day.
- According to the author if this were happening in India, people would be saying, —But I'm the senior secretary - why should I make the coffee and you be the chairman?
- Hierarchy comes naturally to our minds.
- Group work requires a thorough understanding of the strengths and weaknesses of individuals irrespective of their hierarchy.
- Because of our background, we often don't learn how to exercise and accept leadership-to lead and to follow - simultaneously.
- Some gravitate toward exercising leadership, and others gravitate toward accepting the lead of others.
- In true teamwork, everyone needs to do both.

- Being a good team player implies respect for others, tolerance of different points of view and willingness to give.
- The ability to resolve conflicts without either egotism or sycophancy is a very important aspect of being a team player.
- You have to agree to disagree.
- The author says he find that people in India somehow tend to focus on achieving total agreement, which is almost always impossible.
- So before work begins, people want everyone to agree on everything. Instead, they should say, —OK. This is what we agree on, so let’s start working on this. What we don’t agree on, we will resolve as we go along.
- For things to move forward, it’s important to work on the agreed-upon aspects and not get bogged down in the areas of disagreement.
- Further author says that another snake that kills teamwork is people’s political agendas.
- You’ve got to be open, clear and honest to be a good team player.
- Most people though, have a hidden agenda - they say something but mean the exact opposite which the author calls split-level consciousness.
- To say and mean the same thing is a very critical part of a good work ethic.
- UNIT 3
- Further the author shares one more of his experience while he was working in C-DOT,
- when there were 400 employees under him, where he used to tell the person directly to his face in a general meeting if he/she was found doing something.
- People were of the view that Sam Pitroda was ruthless. The employees said that was insulting,
- Besides, he figured that criticizing someone in a meeting was for the benefit of all present, and everyone could learn from that individual’s mistakes.
- It was then that the writer learnt that Indians do not differentiate between criticizing an idea and criticizing an individual. So in a group, if you tell someone that his idea is no good, he automatically takes it personally and assumes that you are criticizing him.
- No one can have a good idea every day on every issue. If you disagree with my idea, that does not mean that you have found fault with me as a person.
- It is perfectly acceptable for anyone to criticize the boss -but this concept is not a part of the Indian system.

- So From time to time, it is important for an organization's chief executive to get a report on the psychological health of the firm. How do people in the team feel? Are they stable? Confident? Secure? Comfortable?
- These are the key elements of a team's success.
- For a boss to be comfortable accepting criticism from subordinates, he must feel good about himself.
- Self-esteem is a key prerequisite to such a system being successful.
- By highlighting another personal story Sam Pitroda brings out another serious problem facing India - the dichotomy and difference in respectability between physical and mental workers which seriously affects team performance.
- He had a driver named Ram, who he thought was one of the best drivers in the world. He used to open the door for me whenever Sam Pitroda entered or exited the car.
- Right in the first few days the author told him, —Ram bhai, you are not going to open the door for me. You can do that if I lose my hands. saying? This is my job||.
- The writer didn't want to treat him like a mere driver. He had to become a team player.
- He told him that whenever he was not driving, he should come into my office and help out with office work - make copies, file papers, send faxes, answer phone calls or simply read - rather than sit in the car and wait for me.
- UNIT 4
- In the last part of the text author focuses on the importance of diversifying tasks.
- According to him diversifying tasks increases workers' self-esteem and motivation and makes them team players.
- In our system today it is very difficult to build teams because nobody wants to be seen playing subordinate positions.
- In India we have people of different cultural backgrounds, religions, ethnicities and caste groups - a fertile ground for diversity in the workplace. We should actually be experts in working with diversity.
- But it can only happen when we get rid of personal, caste and community interests.
- There could be a 40-year-old CEO with a 55-year-old VP. It has nothing to do with age; capability and expertise are what counts.
- But these attitudes are not seen to be taking hold in India.
- Managers in the US corporate environment who work with Indians - and in fact, with Asians in general - need to recognize that these individuals have a tendency to feel they are not getting recognition or are not being respected.

- It must be realized that these individuals have lower self-esteem to begin with and therefore have to be pampered and encouraged a little more because they need it.
- This makes them feel better and work better.
- There is no substitute for teamwork .Teamwork is key to corporate and national governance, and to get anything done.
- The fundamental issues are respect for others, openness, honesty, communication, willingness to disagree, resolution of conflict, and recognition that the larger goal of the team as a whole is above individual or personal agendas.
- Lastly he says to not to be afraid of pressure. Pressure is what turns a lump of coal into diamond.
- Inchcape Rock By Robert Southey
- The Inchcape Rock by Robert Southey is a ballad that tells us about the legend of the Inchcape Rock, a reef in the North Sea about 18 km off the east coast of Angus, Scotland.
- The story is about the good Abbot of Aberbrothok and the devilish Sir Ralph the Rover.
- The Abbot achieved the great feat of installing a bell on the dangerous Inchcape rock that had previously caused many shipwrecks.
- His bell rang during the storms and issued an alert for the passing ships.
- So, the seamen knew where the rock is and could avoid the danger of an accident.
- They blessed the Abbot for his good work.
- But it was the Rover who felt jealous at the fame of the Abbot and planned to cut down the bell from the Inchcape rock. And so he did. This Ralph the Rover was actually a sea-pirate. He tried to destroy the bell to accomplish his desire to rob more ships by putting them in danger.
- But finally he himself became the victim of the Inchcape rock. One day his ship was left in the midst of storms, lost the direction and crashed against the rock. Thus the Rover was punished for his sinful work.
- Here the poet Robert Southey delivers a message through his poem: As you sow, so shall you reap.
- So the poem The Inchcape Rock is didactic in nature like most of Southey's poems.
- The poem is a bit long as the ballads should be. It consists of seventeen stanzas of four lines each.
- The first two and the last two lines of each stanza rhyme with each other.
- The rhyme scheme is AABB for each stanza.

- In the first stanza of the poem the poet describes the calmness of the sea. The air, the sea, the ship – all were still. The sails of the ship were getting no motion from the wind. Its keel was steady in the ocean.
- The second stanza describes the mild sea waves. The waves were rising and falling so little that they did not make any sign or sound. The waves were gently flowing over the Inchcape Rock without moving or ringing the bell.
- The third stanza is about the bell. The good old Abbot of Aberbrothok_ positioned the Inchcape bell there on the Inchcape Rock. During the storms it floated on a buoy and rang wildly swung by the high tides to alert everyone that the dangerous rock was there.
- In the next four lines, the poet tells us how the bell guided the mariners in the bad weather.
- The seamen could not see the Rock as it stayed hidden under the high waves during the storms. But they could hear the ringing bell and went away from the perilous (dangerous) rock.
- So the bell saved their lives. Then the seafarers blessed the Abbot for his good job.
- The fifth stanza delivers a cheerful atmosphere, as it generally happens before every disaster. On a particular bright day everything looked joyful. The sea-birds were whirling over the sea and screaming in joy.
- In the sixth stanza of the poem Sir Ralph is introduced for the first time. On that fine day, the buoy (an anchored floating sign to show the reef) on the Inchcape Rock was clearly visible, as it was a blackish spot in the green ocean.
- Sir Ralph the Rover went onto the deck of his vessel and gazed at dark spot of the buoy.
- The next stanza deals with Ralph's feelings and thoughts. He was delighted at the good spring atmosphere.
- He was making whistling sounds and singing in joy.
- He was actually overjoyed. But no one knew that a sinful thought in his mind was behind this happiness.
- In the eighth stanza the Rover himself speaks and reveals his desire. His eyes were fixed on the floating buoy on the Inchcape Rock.
- Sir Ralph the Rover ordered his crew to take the boat to the Inchcape Rock. Then he says that he is going to plague (kill or destroy) the good work of the Abbot of Aberbrothok.

- The ninth stanza describes that the Rover's men took the boat to the Inchcape Rock. There he bent over the boat and cut the bell from the Rock.
- The next stanza pictures how the bell was sinking down making the bubbling sound. Bubbles rose and burst around.
- Sir Ralph was happy thinking that the bell would save no more ships and the seamen would no longer bless the Abbot.
- Sir Ralph the Rover then sailed away from the rock. Thereafter he had robbed and looted many ships which met accidents crashing to the Inchcape Rock.
- He is now a rich man with all the looted treasures. And today he is going to the Scotland shore with his ship.
- The twelfth stanza describes the gloomy atmosphere on the day the Rover is sailing to Scotland. The sun is hidden behind the thick fog. Strong winds were blowing all the day, and now, in the evening it has stopped blowing.
- The next four lines continue the gloom. The Rover is now on the deck of his ship. They can't see land as it is very dark.
- Sir Ralph assures that the moon will appear soon and so there will be light.
- In the fourteenth stanza one of Ralph's men says that he hears the roaring sound of the waves breaking against something. So, he hopes they should be near the shore.
- He also regrets that the Inchcape Bell is no more, as it could guide them in this situation. But no sound was there.
- The tides were strong. The Rover and his team are drifting along with the ship.
- Suddenly the vessel gets a jerking. They all realize that the vessel has hit the Inchcape Rock.
- Sir Ralph the Rover pulls his hairs in frustration. He curses himself for his evil deeds.
- Meanwhile the water fills in every corner of the vessel and it starts sinking in the sea.
- In the last stanza of the poem as the Rover is dying, he hears a sound like the ringing of the Inchcape Bell.
- It was actually his death knell that the Devil himself was ringing beneath the water. Thus the Rover gets punishment for his sinful works.
- Robert Southey is a poet who always delivers a teaching through his poems. This too is not an exception.
- To My True Friend By Elizabeth
- The poem 'To my true friend' is an ode written by Elizabeth Pinard.

- The poem describes her friend as a true friend who kept her going when she was in her difficult time.
- The friend always encouraged and supported her when she felt low .
- The friend made the poet learn to love herself.
- She/he was always there for her, and encouraged her.
- She was her biggest support both in her good and the bad days.
- Though they were separated by thousands of miles, their friendship remained the same.
- She cherished the memories of their togetherness.
- The poet never gives up the hope that their paths are destined to cross again.
- She/he was the sweetest part of her life for so long, she liked her/his positive outlook, her/his sweet smile and caring attitude.
- She/he will always have a special place in her heart.
- Stanza wise summary
- The day I met you I found a friend - And a friendship that I pray will never end.
- The poet says it was a friendship at first sight. At first sight she was confirmed that she had got a true friend.
- The poet is anxious to keep it alive till her death.
- So she prays God not to break such a lucid friendship
- Your smile - so sweet and so bright - Kept me going When day was as dark as night. Poet's friend is benevolent through the ups and downs of her life.
- Friend's smile was a source of hope that encouraged her to move on despite all difficulties.
- You never ever judged me, you understood my sorrow. You told me it need not be that way and gave me the hope of a better tomorrow.
- It is an unconditional friendship. Her friend has never tried to judge the poet. She/he understood her sorrows. He always injects faith into her by giving her a hope of a better tomorrow.
- You were always there for me, I knew I could count on you. You gave me advice and encouragement whenever I didn't know what to do.
- When the poet was confused and did not know what to do she/he gave her proper advice and encouragement. She knew she could trust her/him blindly.
- You helped me learn to love myself. You made life seem so good. You said I can do anything I put my mind to and suddenly I knew I could do.

- Her friend made her life so good. She/he helped her learn to love herself, to have confidence. She/he told her that she was capable of doing anything into which she puts her mind. Her/his encouragement made her bold.
- She realized she could do whatever she would like to.
- There were times when we didn't see eye to eye and there were days when both of us cried.
- But even so we made it through: Our friendship hasn't yet died.
- Of course there were conflicts. There were days when they did not see eye to eye. There were days when they had cried still their friendship never died.
- Circumstances have pulled us apart; we are separated by many miles. Truly, the only thing that keeps me going is my treasured memory of your smile.
- Circumstance has separated them. They are living miles apart from each other. But their friendship remains firm as before. What keeps the poet going is the treasured memory of her friend's smile.
- This friendship we share is so precious to me, I hope it grows and flourishes And lasts unto infinity.
- Distance did not affect their friendship. They always remained true friends to each other. For the poet this friendship is too precious. She hopes their friendship will grow and flourish to infinity.
- You are so extra special to me and so I really must tell: You are my one true friend, My Guardian Angel.
- She/he is truly extra special to her. She classifies her/him as her guardian Angel.
- Our friendship is one-in-a-million. So, let's hold on to it forever. We cannot let this chance of pure bliss fly away for there will never be another. I'll love you forever.
- The poet further says it is a rare friendship; it is one in a million.
- She hopes that both will continue to be true to each other.
- True friendship is bliss. They must not let it end because there cannot be another friendship like this.
- She admits her true love for her friend. It is a divine feeling. She will continue to love her friend.

- Accordingly it is of two types
- Progressive(action in progress)
- Perfective(completed action)

▪Accordingly we have...

- Simple present tense
- Present progressive
- Present perfective
- Simple Past
- Past progressive
- Past perfect

• Voice-change

Active & Passive Voice

Let us first understand the meaning of voice, and what is active voice and passive voice.

What is Voice of a verb?

The voice of a verb expresses whether the subject in the sentence has performed or received the action.

Example:

The watchman opens the door.

The door is opened by the watchman.

Types of Voices of Verb

Verbs have two voices (i) Active Voice

(ii) Passive Voice

Active Voice – When an action performed by the subject is expressed by the verb, it is an active voice. Active voice is used when more straightforward relation and clarity is required between the subject and the verb.

Active Voice example:

Hens lay eggs.

Birds build nests.

Passive Voice – When the action expressed by the verb is received by the subject, it is passive voice. Passive voice is used when the doer of the action is not known and the focus of the sentence is on the action and not the subject.

Passive Voice Examples:

Eggs are laid by hens.

Nests are built by birds.

Active And Passive Voice Rules For Conversion of Sentence

Below are the active-passive voice rules to follow for changing an active sentence into a passive voice. Before heading to the rules of active-passive voice, let's check the examples of active and passive voice sentences.

Conversion of Active and Passive voice examples

Rita wrote a letter. (Subject + Verb + Object)

A letter was written by Rita. (Object) + (auxiliary verb) + (past participle) + (by subject).

She cooks food. (Subject + Verb + Object)

The food is cooked by her. (Object) + (auxiliary verb) + (past participle) + (by subject)

Rules for Active – Passive Voice Conversions

Rule 1. Identify the (S+V+O) Subject, Verb and object in the active sentence to convert to passive voice

Example:

He drives car. (Subject – He, verb – Drives, object – Car)

Rule 2. Interchange the object and subject with each other, i.e. object of the active sentence become the subject of the passive sentence.

Example :

Active voice : She knits sweater. (Subject – She, Verb – Knits, Object – Sweater)

Passive Voice : The sweater is knitted by her. (Object sweater is interchanged with the subject She).

Rule 3. In passive voice sometimes the subject is not used, i.e. the subject in passive voice can be omitted if the sentence without it gives enough meaning.

Example :

Milk is sold in litres

Rule 4. Change the base verb in the active sentence into the past participle ie. third form verb in a passive sentence i.e. preceded by (By, With, to, etc). Base verbs are never used in passive voice sentences.

Example:

Active voice: She prepares dinner.

Passive voice: The dinner is prepared by her.

Active voice: She knows him.

Passive voice: He is known to her.

Active voice: Juice fills the jar.

Passive voice: The jar is filled with juice.

Rule 5. While conversion of Active voice sentence to Passive voice sentence, the pronoun used in the sentence also changes in the following manner.

Active Voice Pronoun Passive Voice Pronoun

I	Me
We	Us
He	Him
She	Her
They	Them
You	You
It	It

Rule 6. Use the suitable helping or auxiliary verb (is/am/are/was, etc.). The rules for using auxiliary verbs in passive voice sentences are different for each tense.

Example:

The letter is written by her.

A book was not bought by her.

Chocolates are being eaten by them.

Forms of Active And Passive Voice For All Tenses

Simple Present Tense

Active Sentences

He writes an essay.

Sheena does the housework.

She cares for the rabbit .

Jacob always plays the guitar .

Passive Sentences

An essay is written by him

The housework is done by Sheena

The rabbit is being cared for by her

The guitar is always played by Jacob

Present Continuous Tense

Active Sentences

They are eating bananas.

Bob is drawing a diagram.

Samta is playing the piano.

She is waiting for Reema.

Passive Sentences

The bananas are being eaten by them.

A diagram is being drawn by Bob.

A piano is being played by Samta.

Reema is being waited for by her.

Present Perfect Tense

Active Sentences

Has he done the work?

Have they left the apartment?

He created this masterpiece.

He read the newspaper.

Passive Sentences

Has the work been done by him?

Has the apartment been left by them?

DEFINITION OF COMMUNICATION

A blow with a word strikes deeper than a blow with a sword.

-Rebert Burton

Communication is a process of passing information and understanding from one person to another.

-Keith Davies

Communication is any behavior that results in an exchange of meaning.

-The American Management

Association

Communication may be broadly defined as the process of meaningful interaction among human beings. more specifically, it is the process by which meanings are perceived and understanding are reached among human beings.

Essentially ours is a society that moves on the wheels of communication. Particularly in the professional world, it is communication and its related skills that decide a person's career curve. The better one's communication skills, the higher are the chances for him/her to touch the zenith of success.

Etymology of communication.

Communication, the buzz word in today's world, originates from the Latin word 'Communico' or 'Communicare', which means 'to share'.

2.Good Communication and Bad Communication

- Good Communication is the exchange of clear and valid information it sounds simply means the ability to express someone's opinion/ view/ thoughts in the most efficient and coherent manner. It also defined as the meaningful communication.

- Bad communication or Poor Communication has various aspects like lacking comprehension, fluency, lack of valid information/message lack of clarity and poor body language.

3. Communication Model:

One way communication model and two way communication model with examples.

- One way Communication flows from a sender to receiver, but nothing goes back in return it's just like one way traffic.
- The sender can use one way communication to inform, entertain, persuade or command the audience.
- Ex: television, radio, writing speeches, performances etc: this kind of situation also occurs in most of the class rooms, where the teacher goes on speaking and dismayed where there is no active participation from the student's side. It's not an effective communication.

- Two way communication is when one person is the sender and they transmit a message to another person, who is a receiver. When the receiver gets the message, they send back a response, acknowledging the message was received.
- Two way communication is considered as the most effective communication.
- Ex- Some interactive classroom, mobile/ telephone communication etc.

4.Process of communication and factors responsible for it

- In order to analyze the activity of communication, we must know the process and the elements involved in the process of communication.
- There are some elements or factors which make up the process of communication.
- Source/ Sender is the one who initiates the action of communication.
- Audience/ Receiver is the person (b) for whom the communication is intended.
- Goal/ Purpose is the sender's reason for communicating, the desired result of communication.
- Context/ environment is the background in which communication takes place.
- Message/ Content is the information conveyed.
- Channel/ medium is the means or method used for conveying the message (Oral/ Written/ Visual)

- Feedback is the receiver's response to the communication as observed by the sender.

Process of communication

- Communication is a process where by information is encoded, channeled, and sent by a sender to a receiver via a medium. The receivers then decodes the message and give the sender a feedback.
- Any forms of communication require a sender a channel, a message, a receiver and the feedback that effectively winds up the process.
- However, sometimes there occurs a hindrance in the communication process which is called noise,
- Noise can be defined as an unpleasant/ unplanned interference in the communication environment.

Stages of Communication Process:-

- Ideation
- Encoding
- Transmission
- Decoding
- Feedback
